

Matías Toro Loyola

Cello

Matias started to study cello when he was 4 years old in Antofagasta, with teacher Alejandra Ortíz de Zárate Salfate, at the Da Vinci Conservatory of Liceo Experimental Artístico.

In 2016 he entered the Faculty of Arts of Universidad de Chile with professor Julio Barrios Wattson, and at present he is in his final year.

He has played in the Metropolitan Students Symphony Orchestra, Antofagasta Symphony Orchestra and National Symphony Orchestra. In the Youth National Symphony Orchestra, he played as the first cello.

He has been in masterclasses with professors such as Andrés Díaz, Wilhelmina Smith, Claudio Santos, and Marcio Carneiro.

He was part of the Pilot Program of Curtis, where he shared classes with cellists from all over the world.